

FOR THE TOP TABLE

Scotland's largest home furnishings retailer, Sterling Furniture, has launched three new festive looks this winter. Inspired by key fashion trends, snowy scenes and modern living, the new collections – the geometric black and white Midas Touch, traditional Frosted Forrest and the Scandinavian-inspired Candy Cane Christmas, pictured – are available at Sterling Furniture Homestores in Glasgow, Tillicoultry and Aberdeen. www.sterlingfurniture.co.uk

SLUMBER IN STYLE

Combining elegant curves, clean lines and exquisite detail, the new French Classics range from And So To Bed features eye catching design and exceptional craftsmanship for a timeless piece that will enhance any bedroom scheme. With stores in Edinburgh and Glasgow, make time to revamp the bedroom in the New Year with these opulent new furnishings. www.andstobed.co.uk

SMART BATHROOMS

Grey winter days are perfect for the therapeutic experience of a relaxing bath – and with sophisticated extras and smart technology, Kaldewei transforms this retreat into a paradise for all the senses. Sound Wave, the first bath audio system from Kaldewei, can play back music from a smartphone or tablet, allowing sounds to be felt through the bath water. Three lighting systems are also available, including underwater spotlights and an automatic colour spectrum, which can be controlled from a panel integrated into the bath. www.kaldewei.com

COSY CUSHIONS

Add some winter warmth to the living room or bedroom with Nkuku's range of supremely soft lambswool cushion covers, available in a range of understated shades including oatmeal, mocha and grey. www.occa-home.co.uk

ON TREND

Concealment, linear and handleless are the buzz words for kitchen design for 2015, according to experts Kitchens International. Kitchens designed from the retailer's stores in Edinburgh, Aberdeen, Glasgow and Perth often incorporate desks, bar areas and televisions, ready to be used as the dormant room in the house. Colour schemes, too, are steadily becoming more daring for the year ahead, spanning a range of teals, mustards and even gold and copper. www.kitchensinternational.co.uk
